1. Introduction

The Sindh Teacher Education Development Authority (STEDA) is endeavoring for achieving obligations and striving for delivery of services as per its mandate, envisaged in STEDA Act, 2012. In this regard Authority has developed close relations with various partners (Public and Private). The Right to Play² (RTP) has been working with the Department of Education and Literacy, Government of Sindh, for the provision of quality education. Quality Education is a multi-dimensional concept and, thereby, needs multiple approaches to ensure quality at various levels, including accreditation of the teacher education institutions and that of the Continuous Professional Development (CPD) programmes. With this backdrop, RTP offered technical support to the Sindh Teacher Education Development Authority (STEDA) in order to facilitate the process of peer review of standards and tools related to accreditation. The current document is an outcome of the review process.

This document outlines the accreditation process through documenting the proposed revisions of standards and tools related to the accreditation process.

2. Process adopted in developing the document

STEDA's team has been engaged with the development of standards for accreditation of institutions and programmes. The team has also developed tools to implement these standards. A rigorous review process was considered important for the finalization of these standards and tools. The review was carried out by relevant experts from both the public and private institutions of teacher education in the field. The list of participating organizations is annexed with this report

The current document is based on peer review process systematically carried through three consultative workshops facilitated by RTP and hosted by Sindh Teacher Education Development Authority (STEDA). The overview of these consultative workshops is given in Appendix-1.

3. STEDA's Role in Accreditation

The Sindh Teacher Education Development Authority (STEDA) was established through the Act No. XVIII of the Sindh Provincial Assembly in 2012. The preamble of the Act states that the raison d'être of STEDA is 'to manage and regulate the teachers education and professional development in the Province of Sindh' (p.85).

²Right To Play is a global non-governmental organization that uses transformative power of play and sports to educate and empower children. Right To Play engages more than 1 million children on regular basis in structured play and sports activities for building essential life skills in 20 countries across the globe.

The Act, under the section of ‘Powers and Functions of Authority’, explicitly mentions STEDA’s role in relation to accreditation. See section 4 (1) (p) of the STEDA Act), which states:

“...accredit and oversee public and private sector and other service providers for teachers education and professional development.” (p.89)

The above provision emphasizes that STEDA should develop standards and processes to undertake the accreditation of service providers. In addition to the accreditation of institutions, the STEDA Act also highlights the need to accredit programmes offered by accredited institutions. Section 4 (1) (g) reads as:

“...lay down guidelines for compliance by accredited institution for starting new courses, programmes or training and for providing physical and instructional facilities, staffing pattern and staff qualifications.” (p.88)

The following box provides some description of the concept of ‘accreditation’.

Box 1:

Accreditation – Some Description

National Accreditation Council for Teacher Education (NACTE) describes accreditation as ‘an evaluation process to determine the quality of an institution or programme using preset standards’. The standards for accreditation are set through peer review process. The members of peer review forum include faculty members from different accredited institutions and experts in the field. The standards prepared will be applied to the institutions seeking for accreditation. The crux of accreditation is: formal judgment (and recognition of) about the quality of service provider and the quality of service (programme offered).

Given the mandate provided through the Act, STEDA is responsible for the matters related to the accreditation of institutions and the new programmes offered by the accredited institutions. The standards for accreditation will be applicable both to public and private institutions. The role of STEDA as an accrediting body is depicted in Fig. 1 below.

3.1 Rationale for Accreditation of Teacher Education Institutions and Programmes

Accreditation is closely linked to quality assurance mechanisms. The quality provision of teacher education requires that provider institutions and the programmes offered by them are of high quality. Quality assurance needs framework that provides overall guidance and certain mechanisms. Accreditation provides such framework based on standards.

3.2 Conceptual Framework

STEDA is an apex body to regulate and manage activities associated with teacher education in Sindh. Given the emphasis on quality in strategic/ legal documents – such as SETDA Act (2012), Teacher Education Policy 2009, Teacher Education Strategy (TES), Sindh Education Sector Plan (SESP) and others, STEDA has developed an Accreditation Mechanism to ensure quality as a sustainable mechanism in Teacher Education. The key features of the mechanism are outlined below:

- Accreditation is seen as a mechanism of quality assurance in teacher education.
- Accreditation mechanism is based on standards for CPD providers and for CPD programmes.
- These standards have been peer reviewed; the peers were invited both from public and private sector.
- The operationalization of the standards has been carried out through tools and guidelines.
- Meeting some standards is mandatory; for example, Standard No.1 (Mission and Vision Statement) and Standard No.2 (Legal Status). If any institute fails to meet the mandatory standards, its application for accreditation will not be entertained.

4. Process – Accreditation of Institutes/ Service Providers

The process of accreditation of service providers will be informed and guided by the ‘Standards for Service Providers’. The overall process of accreditation is mapped through the following exhibit (cf. Table 1).

Table 1: Accreditation of Service Providers (Process)

Steps/ Stage	Description	Responsibility/ Comments
Expression of Interest (EOI)	The interested institution/ service provider expresses their interest through a formal letter to STEDA	Service Provider (SP) will send formal EOI to STEDA. On receiving EOI, STEDA will dispatch the information package (within one week) to SP to help in formal submission of the application for accreditation
Submission of formal application	The application will accompany important documents to establish credentials	SP will submit a carefully prepared application to STEDA
Review of application	A rigorous process of facilitation, support and review in accordance with the documents submitted by the SP	The STEDA team will engage with SP and guide and support them to fulfill the requirements, ask for more information when required and then at the fulfillment of requirements of the application.
Visit of institution seeking accreditation	The visit of the SP will be carried out by a committee of External Evaluators comprising of members from public and private institutes of credibility/ repute	The application by SP will be a key reference document for this visit besides some additional interactions and observations. The visit will be scheduled based on mutual consent of SP and STEDA
Accreditation or Resubmission	Based on the observations on the documents and visit by the external evaluators, any of the following decisions can be made: A. Approved for accreditation B. Approval contingent upon some modifications/adjustments C. Rejections based on major comments	The accreditation will be for the period of 3 Years (renewable). SP with resubmission may apply after one year/ 6 months OR any other time period as mutually agreed by external evaluators, STEDA and the institute

4.1 Accreditation: Duration, Renewal and Reaccreditation

The period of accreditation for a CPD Provider will be 3 years. However, the maintenance of this accreditation during this period will be dependent upon compliance to the standards set by STEDA.

After 3 years of successful accreditation, the SP, if interested, will apply freshly for the accreditation. This will allow STEDA for a comprehensive and fresh review of the institution for accreditation purpose.

4.2 Process-Accreditation of Programmes

Only institutions with valid accreditation can pursue the accreditation of any programme. The process of accreditation is illustrated in Fig. 2.

The details for each process is given in table 2.

Table 2: Accreditation of Programmes

Steps/ Stage	Description	Responsibility	Comments
Expression of Interest (EOI)	EOI is based on identifications of need by STEDA/any other relevant organization	STEDA sends out EOI to accredited institutions with the timelines.	EOIs may also be initiated by accredited institutions based on their empirical work
Submission of EOI	Proposals will be developed and submitted using standards for programmes	Accredited institutes will submit their EOI to STEDA within the stipulated time frame	Standards for programmes provide basic framework for proposal submissions
Review of the EOI	The EOI will be scrutinized against the standards for programmes	STEDA team – may include experts from other organizations	The review team should not have any conflict of interest
Decision	The review may result in any of the following decisions: A. Approved with or without comments B. Resubmission	STEDA	In case of Resubmission , the
